Elk Point 4-H Multi Club celebrates achievements

Lyon Cueva, who showed the Grand Champion sheep, and Kaiden Allen, who showed the Reserve Champion at Elk Point 4-H Multi Club's Achievement Day on Thursday were surrounded by fellow members in the Sheep, Canine, Crafts, Geocaching, Cleavers, Creative Options and Leadership projects and their leaders as the show wound up, with a group of parents and fans in the background adding their congratulations to the club on another successful year. Town's commercial, industrial tax incentives will end Dec. 31, 2014

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Tax incentives for those obtaining building permits for industrial or commercial projects in Elk Point will come to an end on Dec. 31, 2014, following a lengthy debate at last Monday's town council meeting.

Council had invited the public to give input on the changes, and former town councillor Ron Fraess came to the meeting to offer his views.

"I don't believe a town this size can afford such things," Fraess said, adding that the $220,600 the concessions cost the town this year "is a lot of dollars this town could use." He suggested that all concessions should come to an end Dec. 31, 2014, and that if the town wanted to provide an alternate incentive for industrial developments, they could "put in a complete service and let it go at that."

With no further input from the public, Mayor

Parrish Tung went around the table, to get reactions from each councillor on if the change should be made, and if so, how it should be done. Council quickly reached a consensus on the business and industrial projects, agreeing that a building permit for either must be made by Dec. 31 to qualify for the incentives. The town will honour all applications made up to that time.

After another round regarding the possibility of modifying the concessions on new residential buildings, it was decided to leave those concessions in place, and to revisit the situation next year.

Potential development

Karan Luthra of Trimove also visited council, noting that the company has "had tremendous growth, and 2.8 acres are not going to be enough for our needs." He said that housing for Trimove's manpower is "a huge issue" and the company is considering building what he described as "a long-term-stay hotel" for the workers, consisting of about 50 units. With the company's option to purchase the adjoining lot about to run out, he asked for council's help in getting more time to allow the company to provide council with details on the proposed project, and said he hopes to bring those to the next council meeting.

Treated water storage

The town is in desperate need of additional treated water storage, and "we have exhausted every avenue" for potential funding, Mayor Tung said. Alberta Transportation, which allocates funding under the Alberta Municipal Water/Wastewater Partnership (AMWWP) Program, considers the project to be a Priority Three under the objectives of the program, and suggested that the project could be eligible under the New Building Canada Fund. The town administration will look into whether the project could be funded if it was already underway when the application is made.

EcoCentre on chamber agenda

VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

The Visitor Information EcoCentre was the main topic at the June meeting of Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, with both its construction and its financial obligation on the agenda.

Issues with the bamboo laminate flooring are still ongoing, and the executive will once again be seeking some resolution. The roof damage from the wild winter windstorm has been repaired, thankfully before the recent heavy rains, and work is underway on the outdoor-access washroom. The washroom will be equipped with a device that will automatically lock and unlock the facility in the overnight hours, and it has been suggested that a switch could be added to the wiring for the device so the washroom would be accessible overnight for such events as the Iron Horse Ultra 100 race and the Wild Pink Yonder trail ride, which will set up camp nearby when they make an overnight stop here on Aug. 15.

No visitor information staff has yet been found for the summer months, and anyone interested in the position is still welcome to apply.

Paying the balance owing on the EcoCentre is yet another problem, with $150,000 still owing, and the chamber was recently advised that the current credit arrangements must be revised. The chamber is looking into a variety of options to facilitate paying down the balance.

Mayor Parrish Tung noted that recent rains have delayed the arrival of the paving crew that will be doing street overlays and paving the original industrial park area. The crew is expected to be arriving this coming week, barring further delays.

The mayor also reported on upcoming changes to the town's tax incentive program, noting that no incentives will be available for business or industrial construction on building permits issued after Dec. 31, 2014, but residential construction will still qualify for the three years of freedom from municipal tax, because, the mayor said, "we do need housing for sale or rent. There are a lot of options," he noted, adding that unfortunately the town doesn't have the ability to see into the future.

Street cleaning on Highway 41 has made a big difference in the town's appearance, but it has been noted that the south entrance to town is "a little bit lacking" in appeal and some of the businesses along the highway are not presenting a tidy aspect to those coming into or through town. The chamber will be sending a request to the town asking that the bylaw pertaining to unsightly premises be reviewed.

Chamber president Debra McQuinn sent a brief report on the meeting with Pengrowth, and said the company is doubling the size of the operation and requires tradespeople along with housing or accommodation. The workers' camp at the Pengrowth site will increase in size but cannot take accommodate all the extra outside needs. Many business and employment opportunities are up for grabs, she noted. Pengrowth's operations have an expected lifespan of 25 years.

The chamber got a brief rundown on the progress on plans for the Wild Pink Yonder Trail Ride visit on Aug. 15. Donation cans will soon be going out in businesses to gather funds for the community to support the riders' quest for breast cancer research, and donations of pink items and crafts are being solicited for a table at the Elk Point Horticulture and Craft Show, where viewers can purchase tickets and enter draws to win those items, with all proceeds going toward the Wild Pink Yonder donation. Town council has kindly provided a budget to cover the costs of preparing supper and breakfast for the trail riders, who will camp at the Iron Horse Trail staging area. A potluck dessert buffet with the public invited to take part, and some entertainment are also on the Aug. 15 program to welcome the riders.

Documents issued by the town-hired inspection firm don't sit well with local electrical contractor Jonny Nielsen, who questioned the disclaimer printed on the bottom of the form, which appears to absolve the firm of any responsibility, which Nielsen said could put the responsibility on town council's shoulders. The mayor asked the town manager to look into the matter.

While the chamber normally recesses for July and August, it was decided that it would be necessary to hold a meeting on July 2 to tie up necessary matters prior to the summer break.

Council agreed that the situation is critical, and the $1.47 million project must be undertaken even without grant funding, because, as Coun. Lorne Young said, "The last thing we want is a town without water."

Coun. Dwayne Yaremkevich agreed, "We have no choice," and moved to proceed with the final engineering details and tendering. With that approved, council gave Bylaw 727/14 all three readings, allowing the town to borrow the funds for the project.

Handi-bus garage

Fraess, who is one of the volunteer drivers of the community handi-bus, had also offered advice on the location of its garage. "It should go where the bus is (parked). You don't want it at the water plant of the public works shop, and the lodge (MD of St. Paul Foundation) owns the land."

Since the previous meeting, Goyan had determined that that location did belong to the Foundation, and council agreed that this was the location that made the most sense. They passed a motion approving the location where the bus is now parked as the preferred site for the garage.

Bulk water rates

Council moved to approve a recommendation from the Public Works committee that the bulk water rate be increased to $5 per cubic meter. This is the same price as St. Paul charges, it was noted.

Arena Repairs

Another recommendation from the Public Works committee was that public works staff would look after the repairs to the northwest corner of the A. G. Ross Arena. Council moved to approve the recommendation.

Town will bloom next year

A matter that has been brought up numerous times over the years is that of hanging flower baskets in the downtown area, and finally the concept has taken root. After getting input from other communities as to cost, Council accepted a recommendation from the Public Works Committee to include a budget amount for hanging baskets in the town's 2015 budget.

Tammy Klatt and her Jack and Jill Playschool graduating class is dressed for the weather and ignored the showers to have fun at their annual visit to the Klatt Ranch, where they were sheltered from the weather by a number of tents and canopies donated by kind friends.

Jack and Jill holds graduation despite Tuesday's rain

TAMMY KLATT

Jack and Jill Playschool instructor

On Tuesday, June 10, 2014 Elk Point Jack and Jill students, family and friends celebrated their 2014 Graduation and wind-up party at the Klatt Ranch. No rain was going to stop this party as everything from the food to the guests were covered! Under the circumstances, knowing what the weather was going to be like, we couldn't have done without the tents generously provided by Dwayne and Tracy Vogel of Prairie Tech Oilfield Services, Ed and Joanne Bepalko, Crystal Pinette and the Klatt family. We all sincere appreciated having been kept dry and to enjoy the celebration due to the efforts of those who had helped the day before setting up in the pouring rain!! The day included a tour of the animals at the Ranch with the opportunity to pet and feed some of the animals. Everyone then enjoyed a wonderful pot-luck lunch that was sure to fill your tummy! Having warm chili, coffee and hot chocolate helped to warm up on a cooler day. Students then put on their personalized gold glittered graduation crowns and handcrafted graduation pins. They then sang Happy Birthday to their fellow classmates that would be celebrating their birthdays during the summer and also three graduation songs. Teacher Tammy Klatt presented each of the students their Playschool Diplomas and Playschool Memory Picture Booklets. On behalf of Jack and Jill Playschool, President, Daleen Pinder presented instructor Tammy Klatt with a thank you gift for a great year. Each student also received a beach towel embroidered with the Jack & Jill Playschool logo, their name and the school year. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves and made the best of things due to the weather. Many fun memorable memories to be added to a great year! Without a tremendous amount of volunteer support from Playschool families each and every year, Playschool would not be able to continue. Everyone's continued support is greatly appreciated as well as the Town of Elk Point MSI grant that Playschool received this year. We'll see our new families Thursday, June 26, 2014 for the Early Registration. Please see the upcoming advertisement in the paper as well as posters that will be posted for details. Take care and have a wonderful summer everyone!

Little visitors enjoyed petting the guinea pig held by Darryl Klatt.

Capsule Comments

by Your Natural Choice Apple Drugs pharmacist, Chris Letawsky

- We've all heard the phrase "five-second rule" when food drops on the floor. This is indeed a myth and many studies have proven its fallacy. We often forget that our shoes track in many bacteria many of which are fecal in origin. Here's a better rule: Drop it? Toss it.
- Good sleep hygiene includes sleeping in a cooler room. It seems that keeping your nighttime bedroom temperature between 15.5 and 19°C (60-66°C) is ideal. It helps cool down your body's core temperature which helps you to sleep better. If you always seem to be warm, try a cool shower before bed.
- One type of exercise that has become popular in recent years is interval training. This combines short bursts of intense activity (intervals) with lower intensity periods of activity. The activity can be swimming, running or even walking. If you use walking as your exercise of choice, warm up first then walk really briskly for 30 seconds then slow down and let your heart rate normalize then repeat. Check with your doctor first if you plan any new exercise activity.
- This is allergy season and the pollen drifting through the air can make life uncomfortable for many. Flushing the nasal passages with a saline solution will help clear pollen so it won't bother you. You can make your own solution (one-quarter teaspoon each of salt and baking soda in 8 oz of water) or buy some ready made at the pharmacy.

Four days to go!

The exciting round of 4-H Achievement Days is over, and that means that summer is just about here - four days more, to be exact!

It's not time to relax yet for all the students in our area, as final exams and graduation ceremonies are rushing toward us, and teachers, administrators and bus drivers have a few more days before they can sit back and relax as well.

Then, of course, come's Canada Day, with local organizations drafting plans for parade floats, ordering groceries for the pancake breakfast and food booths, and participants practicing for the shows.

It's a busy time on all fronts! Welcome, summer!

WAY BACK WHEN...

Great steers, good staff, century of postal service

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE FRONT PAGES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND THE ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF JUNE 17 IN...

1984

Donna Brooker showed the Grand Champion Steer and her brother John the Grand Champion Heifer at Elk Point 4-H Beef Club's Achievement Day, with first-year member Jodi Vogel and Lyle Yuschyshyn showing the reserve champions. The newly-formed provincial Advisory Committee on Heavy Oil and Oil Sands Development toured the local oilfield and met with officials of the town, the County of St. Paul, the MLA and oil business community representatives.

1989

Elk Point Hospital staff bid retiring Director of Nursing Diana Anderson a sad farewell with the crowd of well-wishers overflowing the hospital cafeteria and sharing reminiscences, with a smiling but teary-eyed Anderson urging the staff to "remember that a good staff is the most important part of a hospital."

1994

The A. G. Ross Arena Operating Committee came to the Elk Point Agricultural Society annual meeting with a request that the Ag Society set up a committee to negotiate the sale of the arena to the Operating Committee, who was willing "to take over thing that costs the most money" to keep operating, according to committee chair Kevin Bjornstad.

1999

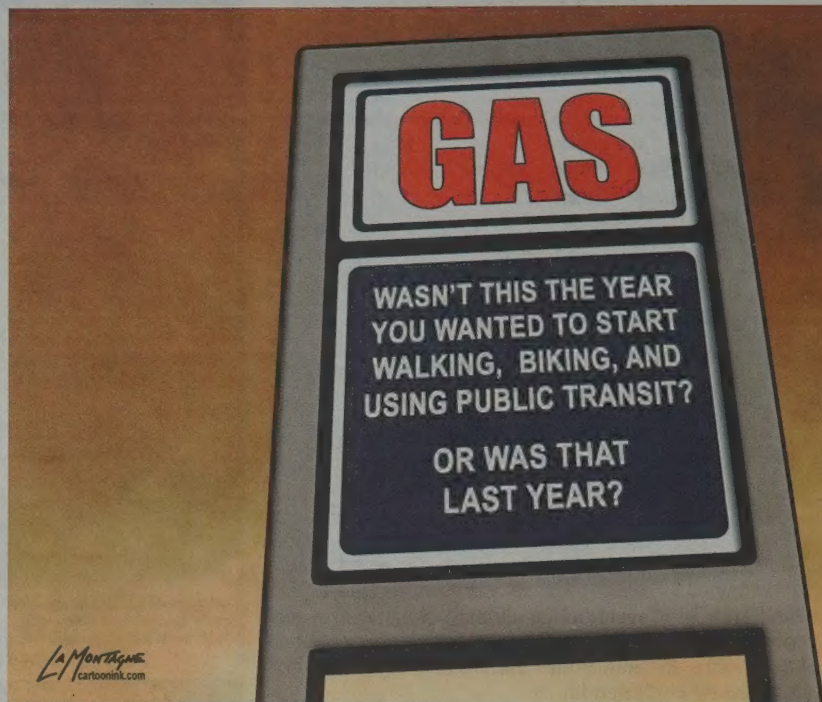

Six Elk Point steers, shown by Adam Zapesocki, Shawna Wruth, James Babenek, Clayton Wruth, Melissa DeSilva and Nichole Havener, were in the Parade of Champions at the St. Paul District 4-H Show, with the Babenek, De Silver and Havener steers making it to the final round along with the two St. Lina steers that eventually won the championship.

2004

2009

Elk Point celebrated a century of postal service, with many former employees joining the current crew for the event, and past postmaster Bill Curry joining the current counterpart Coral Tremblay to cut the anniversary cake. Safety committee members and the management of Canadian Salt marked 1,143,766 hours without a lost-time injury at the Lindbergh works.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

Chamber dismayed about big bank balance

ELK POINT HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Review Contributors

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce started off 1982 with dismay, not that they were too poor, but with concerns about ending the previous year with almost $3,000 in the bank, as they felt this would stop them from getting their annual grant from the Town of Elk Point. The chamber soon found that their worries were unfounded, because about $825 would be required to finish the interior of the new tourist booth and that $500 of the remainder was committed the previous year for staffing but not used because the booth was open for only a few days at the end of summer.

Winds gusting to 75 MPH and temperatures falling to between -42° C and -60° C closed schools, but the County of St. Paul said that for the balance of 1982, schools would not be closed for cold weather, and parents were advised that if they considered it too cold to send the younger children, they should keep them home and send the older ones.

February

King George Rural Electrification Association (REA) was sold to Alberta Power, with its 99 members to each receive about $150 when the sale of the REA's lines was finalized. A vote in mid-January showed 95 per cent of members were in favour of the sale.

Westmin Resources Ltd. set up a temporary office trailer just west of the Elk Point Bottle Depot, with completion foreman Gordon McCuaig confirming that Westmin would be buying two acres of land in the industrial subdivision when it became available for a more permanent location. Westmin had already drilled about 40 wells in the area.

Annexation and a town and county agreement on school reserve land and money were topics of discussion at a special meeting between Deborah Kerr of Municipal Planning and town council. Kerr recommended that the town be well prepared before applying for annexation, as trends for the coming 10 or 15 years would be an important factor in receiving approval from the Local Authorities Board.

A resolution passed at council's next regular meeting was the first step to annexing land to the east and south owned by Pete Andrishak, Jean Slywka, Joe Zarowny and Nick Scraba. Council also ratified the land assembly agreement from Alberta Housing so that Elk Point's Industrial Subdivision could go ahead.

March

Elk Point Surface Rights Association increased its board of directors from 11 to 13 at its annual meeting, where guest speaker and EPSRA lawyer Peter Johnson said that this was probably the most educated board of directors in Alberta or Saskatchewan and "the most feared board of the bunch. Dome (Petroleum Ltd.) is scared to come into this area."

Town Coun. Phil Matveyenko submitted his resignation from council, saying that he had been instructed that his involvement with town council and other organizations was or could be hindering his duties as administrator of F. G. Miller High School.

Three projects could double the fire department's budget, with plans to renovate the fire hall, to install three doors in the south side of the building and to purchase five more pagers for the firefighters, so they could be warned before sounding the fire siren, thus taking care of traffic tie-ups that resulted from all 22 firemen arriving simultaneously.

The Elk Point Sentinel ceased publication with its March 10, 1982 issue, managing editor Erik Nielsen citing "rapidly rising costs coupled with the currently depressed economic climate" as a reason. He said the company would focus on commercial printing as a way to pay off the debt load, and would hopefully have the paper back on newsstands by late summer or early fall of that year. Unfortunately, that was not the case, and the Sentinel faded into Elk Point's history.

The Elk Point Review publishes a variety of opinions as a contribution to debate on matters of public concern. Unsigned editorials express the view of this newspaper's editorial board which includes the Publisher and the Editor. Signed pieces express the view of the individual writer.

Sun shines on Sox

Nothing but sunshine this past weekend for the Peeewe Sox when they traveled to Fort Saskatchewan to play a double-double; two games back to back on Saturday and two games on Sunday. This is the ultimate test of your bullpen, but in the end it will always make you a better team when it really counts in the provincial final. The first game against the Slave Lake Heat, the boys really pounded the ball, winning quite easily by 10 runs in five innings. The "Babe" Cody Fairbairn getting the call to the hill shut down the Heat winning the game MVP.

The second game on Saturday was a much closer match against the Stoney Plain Royals, in fact the Sox won this one in the bottom of the seventh when down by a few runs slugger Colton McLean coming to the dish with two out and two strikes had a walk off single, driving in the winning run. Braden "Magnet" Fairbairn the starter for this one, Graham Broda coming in on relief.

Father's Day Sunday morning at 9 am the Sox hit the field again this time against the South Jasper Place Jays, the Jays are one of the top teams in the tier and the day before the Sox would have given them a game for sure, but the fielding was not nearly as sharp and I suspect maybe the early morning and the two games the day before had some influence in the team's sloppy play, the Sox losing this one by 10 runs in 5 innings. Corbin "Crusher" Ockerman was throwing strikes but he had little support. Dalton Reed, who is celebrating his birthday today, chucking the last inning. "Magnet" with two doubles was the game MVP.

The second game on Sunday the Sox meeting another top team, the Drayton Valley Giants losing a close one 16 to 13. The Sox played much better in the field, especially third baseman Kaiden

"K Rock" Evans - Anderson, he handled the hard hit ball in the hot corner a number of times completing the long throw to first for the outs and the fast right fielder Aiden Stryba-Church. They also had some great pitching from Landon Vasseur, awesome pitching from the middle relief rookie Ty Smereka and the Cold Lake closer Grady Fraser, but also faced some really tough pitching themselves in the final three innings and had trouble generating enough runs late in the game to catch up. "Crusher" who comes by his name honestly, crushing the ball, hitting the center field fence a foot from the top was the game MVP.

Now for the K. A. Campbell quote of the week. "I became an optimist when I discovered that I wasn't going to win any more games by being anything else." Last week's answer to: "Work? I never worked a day in my life. I always loved what I was doing, had a passion for it." - Ernie Banks.

4-H Multi Club members present their projects

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point 4-H Multi Club and a large crowd of spectators enjoyed a fine evening for Thursday's Achievement Day, with Cleaver, Craft, Canine, Geocaching, Sheep, Creative Options and Leadership members all having their turn in the spotlight.

Seven Cleaver members were first in the ring, where mistress of ceremonies Edna Kulczycki introduced them and told the audience what these youngest members, aged six to nine years, enjoyed most about 4-H.

A dozen Sheep

Project members then brought their fine looking animals into the ring, where Grooming and Showmanship judge Blair Dow checked out each and every one before declaring Carson Vogel first and Lyon Cueva first in Intermediate Grooming and Wolke Cueva first and Eros Cueva second in Junior Grooming.

Project leader Dwayne Vogel took the opportunity to outline the challenges the members faced this year. The sheep the members started the year with contracted a serious disease and had to be destroyed, but this did not keep this avid group of young shepherds from learning, as they toured the sheep facility at Lakeland College and later visited the Mannville Hutterite Colony, which also has a substantial sheep herd. The current crop of sheep have been on feed for only 47 days and have recently been sheared, but are doing very well, he said. Some of the members are planning to show their sheep at the provincial 4-H sheep show at Olds and at Vermilion.

Darcy Evans brought her five Geocaching members into the ring and talked about their four very interesting expeditions in this new field of interest, where they found 15 caches.

Crystal Boorse and Edna Kulczycki shared the leadership of the Crafts group this year, and spoke briefly on their projects.

Then it was time for Darryl Klatt and his four-member Canine group, who put their dogs, large and small, through their paces on a large and challenging obstacle course, returning later to show off more of their skills following the Sheep Showmanship category.

Morgan Evans placed first in Intermediate Showmanship, with Lyon Cueva second, while in the Junior group, Wolke Cueva was first and Sam Henderson placed second, with honourable mention going to Everett Smith.

Creative Options member Lee-Anna Gibson and Leadership project member Edna Kulczycki gave a brief rundown on their projects before a table bearing four pairs of rubber footwear, which were scrutinized and judged earlier in the evening by all the members, were brought back into the ring, and each member had the opportunity to give an oral presentation on their reasons for placing the boots as first through fourth choices as the ideal adult rubber boots. Winners, by virtue of written and oral reasons, were Juniors Wolke and Eros Cueva, Intermediates Carson and Nolan Vogel and Seniors Lee-Anna Gibson and Edna Kulczycki.

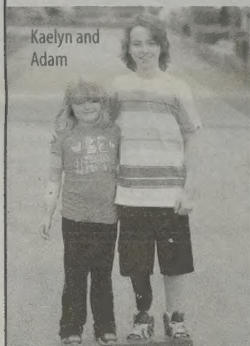

Sheep members brought their animals back into the ring for the final time, to be scrutinized by Conformation judge Travis Dow, who checked them over thoroughly before declaring Lyon Cueva's lamb the Grand Champion and Kaiden Allen's lamb the Reserve Champion. Parker Allen's project lamb had the distinction of winning the Rate of Gain award.

Elk Point 4-H Beef Club winds up in style

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point 4-H Beef Club wound up their 2013-14 year on Wednesday evening with a steak barbecue for sponsors, steer buyers and 4-H families that celebrated not only a successful year for the club, but the contributions the club members will be making to some very worthy causes.

Club president Roy Tymko welcomed the guests, and thanked buyers, sponsors and parents for their support.

Special thanks went to those who contributed to the success of the STARS steer, which was donated by Shamrock Valley Enterprises and with feed and raising provided by 7 Pillars Ranch. Levi Quist raised the steer along with his own 4-H steer, which sold for the club's highest price, almost twice the average price of the club's other steers. "I didn't think that was fair," Levi told the crowd, "so I decided to donate $2,400 to those who need it. I'm giving $800 to help sick kids, $800 to Elk Point Baptist Church to go to people suffering from disasters like the southern Alberta floods, and $800 to our club." His message brought a huge round of applause.

"What Levi is doing shows what coming together as a club can do," steer project leader Kevin Wirsta said, noting that the members had worked together well throughout the year.

"They're a great bunch of kids," overall leader Erin Wells added, "and they're easy to work with."

Wirsta came forward to present each member with a plaque that featured their achievements over the year, with the first plaque presented to Heidi Tymko, who, after having problems with her steer's behaviour at the club show, decided to pull her steer out of the district show and sale in order to ensure the safety of the other 4-Hers. Wirsta praised her consideration as another example of the values 4-H imparts to its members.

The entire club is excited to be heading to the STARS headquarters in Edmonton this weekend to present their almost $18,000 donation to the air rescue society in person, and also to tour the STARS facility.

Elk Point 4-H Beef Club president Roy Tymko presents Lisa Nielsen, of Shamrock Valley Enterprises, with a plaque recognizing Shamrock's contribution of the STARS steer.

Club president Roy Tymko also presented a plaque to the Quist family of 7 Pillars Ranch for their contribution of feed and raising the STARS steer.

This handsome herd shown by Heidi Tymko topped their class, with Patty Mathiot (right) presenting the Richter Rocky Ridge Farms award.

Kailey Wirsta showed the reserve champion herd, with sister Lexi showing the calf, and Kyle Kwiatkowski presenting his family's award.

A three-year-old cow and her calf shown by Bonnyville 4-H member Carter Balan was chosen by conformation judge Jared Sherman as the Supreme Champion Female at the St. Paul District 4-H Invitational Heifer Show at Goodridge on June 8, with Goodridge 4-Her Faith Janz showing her two-year-old cow and calf to win the Supreme Reserve Champion.

The champions were chosen from a group that included the champion and reserve yearlings, two-year-old and three-year-old cows, determined in the previous three classes.

Carter's entry, which earned him the BOS Oilfield Services Ltd. banner and a cash prize from K-Cow Ranch, also won the Lawrence Kwiatkowski Enterprises award as the Three-year-old Cow and Calf champion, with Heidi Tymko of Elk Point 4-H Beef Club showing the reserve in that class for an award from Baker Hughes.

Faith's cow and calf, winning the Heartland Fuels UFA Petroleum banner and a cash prize from Fontaine 'Carel' Farms, was also named Two-year-old Cow and Calf champion for the Rocky Red Angus award, with Hailey Dechaine of the St. Paul 4-H Multi Club taking home the Lakeland Maine Farms reserve champion award.

Carter also showed the champion in the Yearling Heifer class, winning the Crestview Angus award, with the reserve shown by his brother Walker for the Spazz Oilfield Consulting Ltd. prize.

Two Elk Point 4-H members took top honours in the Herd class, Heidi Tymko showing the champion herd for the Richter Rocky Ridge Farms award and Kailey Wirsta the reserve herd for an award from Ben and Melody Kwiatkowski.

Sherman also judged the Showmanship competition, where awards from St. Paul Municipal Seed Cleaning Association Ltd. went to Megan Wirsta, St. Paul, and Jacqueline Janz, Goodridge, in the senior class. Intermediate winners of awards from LD's Chuckwagon went to Heidi Tymko and Faith Janz, while junior winners Dallas Bristow, Elk Point and Kailey Wirsta received their awards from Dechaine Enterprises.

Grooming judge Nicole Rurka chose seniors Megan Wirsta and Goodridge member Morgan Pshyk to win the Goodridge Ag Society prizes and intermediates Hailey Dechaine and Heidi Tymko as winners of prizes donated by J. P. and Rhea Dechaine, with Carter Balan and Goodridge member Elizabeth Janz winning the junior awards from DART Simmentals.

Card judging winners, also determined by Sherman, were seniors Morgan Pshyk and Megan Wirsta, (awards from TD

Bank, St. Paul), intermediates Heidi Tymko and Nicole Bristow, Elk Point (awards from Real Honey Ltd.) and juniors Kailey Wirsta and Sydnee Kwiatkowski, Goodridge, (awards from Northpark Collision and Frame Ltd.)

Kenneth Pshyk was master of ceremonies for the show, with Donald Kwiatkowski and Wes Janz serving as ringmasters.

Dallas Bristow placed first in Junior Showmanship, with Wes Janz presenting the award.

OBITUARY

BRADLEY, Sean
 (1967 - 2014)

It is with heavy hearts that we announce the sudden and tragic passing of Sean Bernard Bradley of Bellevue, AB. He was 46 years of age.

Sean was born on November 18, 1967 in Ponoka, AB to proud parents Bern and Pat Bradley.

Sean was a very sociable and hard working young man. He was afflicted with Cerebral Palsy at a young age but never considered it to be a handicap. Sean was a dedicated and capable worker who put his all into every job he took on. He was meticulous, organized and had an amazing memory for numbers - if you needed a phone number or to remember a special date, you just had to ask Sean! He enjoyed any activity that involved spending time with his friends such as riding his motorcycle, camping, quading, snowmobiling and bonfires out on the trail. He also spent many happy hours in his garage working on vehicles and fixing anything that was broken.

When Sean met Cheryl Kurash, his world was complete. It didn't take long for him to realize that he had found his best friend and the couple became engaged. In each other, they found friendship and true love.

Not only was Sean a devoted son and a loving fiancé, he was a loyal friend who was always there to lend a helping hand. His big smile and infectious laugh will never be forgotten and he will live forever in our hearts.

He is survived by his beloved fiancé, Cheryl Kurash of Bellevue, AB; his parents, Pat and Bern Bradley of Hillcrest, AB; his brother, Bill Bradley of Lethbridge, AB; his sister, Riva (Trevor) Tarcon of Coleman, AB; numerous nieces and nephews; extended family; and the many friends he made throughout his life.

A gathering of family and friends celebrating Sean's life will be held on Sunday, June 15, 2014 from 2pm - 5pm at the Hillcrest Miners' Club. In lieu of flowers, donations in memory of Sean will be gratefully accepted by the Cerebral Palsy Association of Alberta (12001 - 44th St. SE, Calgary, AB T2Z 4G9). Condolences may be registered at www.fantinsfuneralchapel.ca.

Major upgrade for Camp Whitney

VICKI BROOKER
 Review Staff

Camp Whitney United Church Camp has served generations of youth and adults over its 63 years of history, and although campers through those decades have fond memories of time spent in the eight elderly cabins that make up a large portion of the accommodation at the camp, there's no doubt that the structures are showing their age, and need replacement.

A major fundraising campaign has been underway, and Donna Chamberland says the camp's board of directors is "about half way there" to their goal of $300,000 to build two large dormitory-style structures, segregated for male and female campers. The new buildings will not only be insulated and ventilated for comfort, they will be wheelchair accessible. Washrooms and bunks will be added to each dormitory in 2015. "If we can raise the money," Chamberland said. Contributions in kind, such as excavation, landscaping, specialized contractor services such as plumbing and electrical work, building materials, windows, paneling and light fixtures are being accepted for the project along with cash donations.

A very generous cash donation was presented recently by Carrie Rawlake, who fondly remembers attending school and church camps at Whitney, and who was delighted to present Chamberland with a gigantic cheque for $30,000 on behalf of Canadian Natural Resources.

"I give your and your volunteers lots of credit" for undertaking the project, Rawlake said, adding that the use of the camp not only by schools and churches but by the community, groups, corporations and families "was why CN is such a supporter" of the project.

Construction starts in early August, immediately following this year's camping season, and the existing cabins will be moved out and sold, making room for the new dormitories, which could be completed in time for the 2015 camping season.
